Working together on our goals to create a universally-designed playground in West Acton for people of all abilities, with sufficient parking for the site, and the possibility of a future splash pad.

Gardner Field is the last usable green space, surrounded by vegetation, in the heart of West Acton. The site has historical significance and is situated near a significant number of Acton residents, including school-aged children. The playground equipment needs replacement and the site needs more parking. Our goals for the park are: 1) a universally-designed playground for children and caregivers of all abilities; 2) a parking area to serve community events; and 3) a public splash pad.

The Acton Recreation Department has been working closely with the Friends of Gardner Field with the plans for Gardner Field. A Master Plan with several options for the site has been completed along with a land survey. There is one particular plan that both the Town of Acton and Friends of Gardner Field feel fits the needs of the community best. We respectfully ask the community to join us in this public forum for any input on the final design of the future playground.
